

During the mid- to late 1980s, when Nintendo's NES (Nintendo Entertainment System) was bringing back the videogame market to mainstream attention, a series of novels were written to tie into some of the most popular third-party NES game titles such as Bases Loaded and Ninja Gaiden. These novels were written under the "Worlds of Power" book series, for Scholastic publishing.

Today it is our privilege and honor to host an interview with one of the most notable of the authors for the "Worlds of Power" series, PETER LERANGIS (aka "F.X. Nine"). click here to read